

Global Compact Network Australia

Matthew Tukaki is the CEO and Chairman of The Sustain Group, an organisation that works with business and industry to transform their business models for the greening of the economy. Matthew is also The United Nations Global Compact's Local Australian Representative. The UNGC is the world's largest corporate citizenship program with more than 6,000 signatories.

Matthew is a former Chairman of the WorkWise Group and current Chair of the Living Earth Initiative. Living Earth seeks to find solutions to climate change that can involve local communities and small to medium sized enterprises. In terms of organisational transformation Matthew has led reviews of the Joint House Department of the Parliament of Australia and the former Australian Communications Authority, amongst others.

Prior to joining The Sustain Group Matthew was Head of one of Australia's oldest and largest employment companies, Drake International where he was also responsible for operations across Australia and into Asia. He is considered to be one of the most influential people in Australia's employment landscape and is regularly called upon by Governments and business to help define green skills and jobs.

Matthew is also considered to be an expert in the field of organisational transformation and change management and has previously been the Chair of both the CIO Council and the Government Advisory Panel.
